HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April [illegible] [illegible] in the committee [illegible] of the session [illegible] [illegible] otherwise [illegible] May 4th [illegible]

REMARKS BY BUTTERWORTH.

[illegible] Butterworth [illegible] secured the floor [illegible] of his [illegible] for the message [illegible] effect of the whole. He said that [illegible] considered by some [illegible] as unwise, because it [illegible] reached at an early day. Every gentleman [illegible] voted or affected to believe that the message presented a question of vast importance to the country. It has been [illegible] his motion [illegible] ask unanimous consent to [illegible] early day [illegible] [illegible] of the great problem. [illegible] Who was there that hoped and expected that his children would eat bread except in accord with God's ordinance—by the sweat of his brow. He had three boys at his hearthstone, one of whom had suffered from the hand of affliction and who would fight the battle of life against fearful odds, and he protested against any legislation, against any resolution, against any organization that would segregate one of those boys and set him apart as belonging to a peculiar part of the great constituency represented here. The gentlemen here [illegible] had done that in the beginning. He was tired of his demagogism that sought to catch votes, not by [illegible] what was best for labor, but what the workingman could be induced to believe was best for them. He was in favor of organization which brought together all men and recognized the universal brotherhood of men. The bill which passed [illegible] a few days ago was a hollow mockery and sham. It was not intended for relief for the laboring [illegible]. It was merely a deliberate purpose to catch votes. He criticised the want of consideration given to the arbitration bill by the committee on labor. There had been no effort to ascertain facts. If a member secured fifteen minutes to speak on the bill he devoted eight minutes to abusing Jay Gould, six minutes to abusing corporations, and then surrendered the other minute, [illegible] his time being put to the task of suggesting a remedy.

A QUESTION BY O'NEILL.

Why didn't you suggest a remedy? asked O'Neill of Missouri.

Because I could not get time enough to open my mouth, replied Butterworth.

Bland of Missouri—We had a bill here some days ago that proposed to set the laborers of the country at work. How did the gentleman vote on that? Contraction of the currency is impoverishing the people to-day.

Still harping on my daughter, quoted Butterworth in reply. If we were discussing infant baptism here the gentleman would stand up and want to have the baptismal basin purchased with standard silver dollars. [Applause.]

In conclusion Butterworth said that congress owes it to itself to take up the labor question, consider it carefully and then refer it to an appropriate committee. If it were referred to a committee now he feared that a measure would be reported representing not the [illegible] but the political necessities of the [illegible].

RANDALL DEFENDS THE PRESIDENT.

WEAVER [illegible]

Weaver of Iowa was in favor of the motion to refer to a committee with instructions. The message might be calmly considered. The gentleman from Ohio (Butterworth) [illegible] [illegible] calm discussion in committee of the whole, but what example of calmness had the gentleman himself set? [illegible] It was easy to find fault, to carp and criticise, but it required statesmanship and calmness and deliberation to meet the underlying causes of the present labor troubles.

Gibson of West Virginia regretted that the gentleman from Ohio should undertake to bring politics into discussion of this question. The gentleman had charged the majority of the house with [illegible] bringing forward a proposition which would [illegible] have any practical result. [illegible] [illegible] the crimes and sins of their twenty years of legislation.

O'Neill of Missouri said that the arbitration bill had been discussed by the house for four days and not one word of partisan [illegible] had been injected into the debate. It had passed by a four-fifths vote; it had been reported unanimously by the committee; it had been endorsed by the laboring men of the country and by the intelligent [illegible] of the country, and it rested with the gentleman from Ohio to take this pretext for the introduction of politics into the question. [illegible]

BOTH [illegible]

Reed of Maine expressed his satisfaction with the vote [illegible] [illegible] to excuse the president for his message. He was the only man who had aroused him. Nobody on the republican side had [illegible] any fault with [illegible] [illegible] which was stirring among the people [illegible] deliberately considered by congress. If congress could devise a remedy it ought to [illegible]

McCreary of Kentucky was [illegible] with the president's message regarding [illegible] the document. The relations between labor and capital were [illegible] and the message looked to [illegible] bringing them [illegible] a way to settle difficulties between labor and capital [illegible] was the better plan. [illegible] [illegible] friendly and pleasant relations between the two.

Springer of Illinois supported his motion on the ground that the committee on labor was the proper committee to consider the message. He had moved instructions because he desired to see it [illegible] promptly to the recommendation of the president. The wise and thoughtful message of the president should be considered in a proper spirit. He opposed the motion to refer it to committee of the whole because it would be buried there.

Springer's motion was then agreed to.

Nearly the entire body of school lands [illegible] was leased [illegible] under that law [illegible] congress forbids the leasing of [illegible] lands. LABOR TROUBLE NOTES.

THE LABOR TROUBLES INVESTIGATION.

WASHINGTON, April [illegible]—The fourth day's session of the house committee on labor difficulties in the southwest was opened at 11 A. M. by the examination of Frederick T. Turner, general secretary and treasurer of the Knights of Labor. During the progress of the examination the chairman asked: In your statement you used the word "order" in reference to the men going back to work. I want to know whether the central power of your organization can order men to work or order them to quit.

Chairman—That is the question.

Turner (hesitatingly)—Well, I do not understand that if we issued an order for men to go to work that they would refuse to go no matter who ordered them out.

Chairman—You have no power to order a strike, have you?

Turner—Yes.

Chairman (with an air of surprise)—You have?

Turner—Yes, there is nothing in our constitution [illegible] strikes. We do not believe in strikes.

Chairman—Then where do you derive your power to order strikes?

Turner—We have not the power directly to order strikes but we have power to approve or disapprove a strike.

Chairman—Was this strike approved or disapproved?

Turner—We never knew anything about it until we received a telegram from Irons. It has never been approved.

Chairman—Then I suppose [illegible] to order the men to [illegible] to work.

Turner—Yes.

Being questioned on the subject of arbitration Turner said he believed the president's message on that point to-day [illegible] He believed there should be some fixed tribunal of arbitration.

The committee after hearing Mr. Turner closed its sitting in Washington and arranged that members should leave this city for St. Louis Monday morning.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE ENDED.

CHICAGO, April 23.—[illegible] P. M. the strike on the Lake Shore railroad is at an end. Chairman Stahl of the switchmen [illegible] telegram to the strikers at the Forty-third street yards to report to the yardmaster Friday.

President John Newell of the Lake Shore [illegible] said to a representative of the Associated Press: We have allowed the old men to go back to work at their own request without any stipulation whatever on our part. [illegible] non-union [illegible] retained to work along with union men [illegible] to the yards [illegible]

The order for the men to return to work was telegraphed from the general offices of the Lake Shore company at 3 P. M. and within ten minutes switch engines began to [illegible] the round house and the [illegible] began [illegible] The blockade will be completely ended this afternoon.

One of the striking switchmen at the yard declares that the Lake Shore [illegible] agreed on their part to dispose of eight non-union switchmen [illegible] At [illegible] P. M. engine 418 pulled out of the round house manned by a crew of strikers. There is a general shaking of hands and congratulations among the men [illegible]

THE STRIKERS' [illegible]

CHICAGO, April [illegible] [illegible] Chairman Stahl of the strikers' committee [illegible] the strength of which the men returned to work [illegible] "I don't want you to get the signature." Mr. Stahl then read as follows:

CHICAGO, April [illegible]. W. F. Stahl, Chairman, Sir: If all the switchmen of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway company in Chicago and Cook county return to work at once I will personally guarantee that within sixty days from this date the eight objectionable switchmen will be furnished with other employment and permanently removed from their present positions.

Stahl said that though he was not at liberty to give the name of the signer of the agreement it was [illegible] Mr. Newell [illegible]

A number of packers at the stock yards and other business men [illegible] known to have interested themselves in raising the blockade [illegible] and enough has been learned to warrant the conclusion that they brought sufficient pressure to bear upon the company to induce them to capitulate as above related.

THE SITUATION AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, April [illegible]—Police were on hand early to-day to guard the men who are running cars on the Third avenue surface railroad. The cars began running at 6 o'clock. There is no excitement whatever around the depot. Up to 10 o'clock forty [illegible] cars had started from the depot.

NEW YORK, April [illegible]—The building trades [illegible] to-night adopted resolutions declaring that the demands of the Third avenue railroad strikers were just [illegible] The members were ordered to [illegible] until the difficulties were amicably settled.

NEW YORK, April [illegible]—Speaking of the present labor troubles a prominent Missouri Pacific official [illegible] In less than six months the reaction which it is believed will follow the present labor movement will make wages in this country lower than they have ever been. Foreign [illegible] and all the [illegible] labor in this country will come to the help of capital. Seven months ago coal miners along the [illegible] were getting 6 cents a ton for mining and they struck for [illegible] cents. The consequence was that the railroad companies bought coal in other [illegible] and when the striking miners returned they were obliged to compete with others [illegible]

ADVANCE IN THE PRICE OF SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April [illegible]—The strike of the workmen in the Williamsburg sugar refineries has [illegible] prices of sugars. Granulated sugar was [illegible] cents Saturday last. Yesterday it [illegible] cents. It is said prices are sure to advance still higher. The stock of refined sugar on hand amounts to practically nothing. Business has been [illegible] and dealers have been buying sugar in quantities sufficient to supply the demand. Now that the country demand has increased the strike has raised prices at a rate out of proportion to the natural course of the trade. Raw sugar was quoted at 4 1/16 on April 14. Yesterday it was 5 [illegible]. This shows a slight advance in the cost of raw material which is not accounted for by the present strike but which will account for something of the advanced price of refined sugar. The strike however has tended to very much strengthen the advance.

JOHN W. HAYES INTERVIEWED.

NEW BRUNSWICK, April 23.—John W. Hayes, member of the general executive board of the Knights of Labor [illegible] says that no progress has been made toward a settlement of the difficulties between the strikers on the Gould system and the railroad officials. The case is now however in a shape from which it is expected that when the congressional committee reaches St. Louis and meets with the citizens' committee these two bodies may be able to hit upon some plan whereby a settlement may be effected.

He says reports sent out by railroads that they are handling all the freight they want to every day are untrue. The roads are all blocked up and what freight is run out goes under the protection of the deputy sheriffs and militia. The railroads [illegible] and Mr. Hayes admits that they have now [illegible] men necessary to do the work they [illegible] which is very little on account of the blockade. There have been, he says, 10,000 loaded cars [illegible] in the yards for four weeks.

Mr. Hayes says that the uncalled for massacre of innocent people by deputy sheriffs was instigated by railroad authorities. They knew they could not get help from the state militia until some act of violence was committed. They therefore [illegible] He further says that lawyers employed [illegible] Knights of Labor have now in their possession [illegible] evidence to convict prominent officials [illegible] Nashville road of instigating [illegible]

It is in view of the great success of strikes and boycotts that the general executive board have [illegible] called a special session of the general assembly to meet in Cleveland on May 25th to take action upon the great questions brought up by the [illegible] strikes and boycotts. An endeavor will be made to prevent in future any such uprisings as are now in progress without authority of the general [illegible] Hayes returns to St. Louis this evening.

A BOYCOTT SANCTIONED.

PATERSON, N. J., April 23.—The two months' strike at William Skinner & Son's silk mill continues. The executive board of the district assembly of the Knights of Labor has sanctioned a request for a boycott and will notify every assembly in the district. The Central labor union of New York has also endorsed the boycott and is pushing it hard. An application has been made to the general executive board for a general boycott. The employes did not strike until the firm refused arbitration.

AID FOR STRIKERS.

GALVESTON, April [illegible]—A special to the News from Marshall says: The local executive committee of the Knights of Labor received a $5000 draft to-day from Northern knights with which to pay off strikers of the Texas & Pacific shops at this point. The money will be distributed to-morrow.

WAGES ADVANCED.

JERSEY CITY, April [illegible]—Matthieson & Weichers, [illegible] of Matthieson & Weichers's sugar refining company announced to-day an increase of 10 per cent in the wages of the 1800 men employed by them to take effect May 1.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

DR BOWERS PRONOUNCED GUILTY.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—The opinion is gaining strength that the present inexplicable railroad situation means something more than the mere fighting out of the original difficulty between the rival overland lines. What the great game that is being played is no one dares to guess, but that there is something going on which will create surprise when known is not doubted. Which road originated the deeper scheme and which is to be the victim can not now be told, but it has been suggested that the stake being now played for is absolute control of the Atlantic & Pacific railroad. It will be remembered that some time ago the Central Pacific company secured something like a half interest in this road, the rest of the ownership being vested in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad. The acquisition of this interest was at the time considered a very successful operation on the part of the Central Pacific managers, and it evidently took the Atchison magnates by surprise.

It is now suggested that the two great roads are engaged in a game which involves the undivided ownership of the Atlantic & Pacific, and it is hinted that the Atchison is trying here the tactics it found successful in the case of the California Southern road, which it first threw into bankruptcy and then bought outright. This theory however, although made by a railroad man who is a friend of the Southern Pacific company, is acknowledged by him to be theory only, but the only one which he can advance to account for the mystery hanging over the present railroad situation.

Other railroad men have no theory to offer but agree that something no one dreams of is in the wind. When the railroad war is over and the true nature of the contest and its results are known, it is asserted confidently that some road will be found to have been hit hard. Which road this will be no one can now give a hint, but it will be well to remember that he who laughs last laughs best.

The report that the Atlantic & Pacific would not honor orders for return tickets is wrong, as all holders of return orders receive an indorsed order for a ticket via the Southern company's line. Business at all the offices has increased with the advance in fares, the public being afraid of still higher rates.

DR. BOWERS PRONOUNCED GUILTY.

The jury in the case of Dr. J. Milton Bowers, charged with causing the death by phosphorus poisoning of his wife who died November 1st, last year, to-night brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. The alleged reason for the murder was to obtain $17,000 insurance in various benevolent orders on the life of deceased. The case, which has been in progress several weeks, attracted wide attention.

THE SACRAMENTO RACES.

SACRAMENTO, April 23.—This was a disastrous day for the sports at the races of the Capital turf club. The first race was a trot between Voucher, a Stockton horse, and McDonald's Hazel Kirke. Voucher was favorite. Voucher won the first two heats. The judges however put Johnny Goldsmith up behind Hazel Kirke and she won the next three heats and the race.

Next was a pacing race between Prince Shaker, Nevada, Ackerman, Fairmount and Wink. Prince was a great favorite and won the first two heats, Nevada won the next two, Ackerman the fifth, and Nevada the sixth heat and race.

The woman is 18 years old—with dark hair and dark brown eyes. She left Vancouver in a stage and he on a horse, Tuesday. They staid at the Oregon hotel that night and took the train Wednesday morning for Tacoma and Victoria. As yet the wife has not decided to follow them on to British soil hoping to get hold of them on the American side sooner or later. A SHOCKING TRAGEDY

KEYPORT, N. J., April 23.—At the home of J. Monroe Smith, seven miles south of this place, to-day a most dreadful tragedy occurred. Mr. Smith is [illegible] years old and his wife 43, and the mother of six children aged 19, 18, [illegible], 11, [illegible] and 4 years respectively. Some years ago the wife and mother was sent to an insane asylum and was discharged a year later, presumably cured. Last fall she had severe pains in her head and her husband sent her to her brother's house in Elizabeth, where she improved greatly and returned home a short time ago.

This morning after breakfast she went to one of the outbuildings on the premises, and after swallowing a dose of "Rough on rats" returned to the house with an ax concealed under her dress. Eva, her 4-year-old daughter, was still sleeping when the mother entered the bedchamber. Lifting the ax above the sleeping child the maniac mother brought it down, splitting the little one's head open, killing her instantly. She then attacked Rufus, aged 3, dealing him several savage blows on the head with the poll of the ax. Next the 11-year-old daughter begged for mercy, but the blood-stained ax whirled in air and went crashing into the fragile little head. The 18-year-old daughter then locked the baby in an adjoining room and ran screaming outside to apprise her father of the awful work within. After a terrible struggle the woman was secured. One of the children is dead and the others are likely to die before morning. Mrs. Smith is herself in a very precarious condition.

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS.

ANOTHER LEVEE BREAK.

HELENA, Ark., April 23.—Last night the levee at Old Town, sixteen miles south of here, broke on the Arkansas side and in a short time a channel has been worn away by the escaping waters. There is no hope of closing the break while the waters of the river remain at their present depth. Thousands of acres of fertile cotton lands have already been overflowed and it is estimated that a million acres will be submerged before the levee can be repaired. The inhabitants of that region had expected this calamity for some time and had removed their stock and refrained from planting their regular crops, so the actual damage will not be very great.

A BURIED FORTUNE STOLEN.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 23.—John Boyd (colored) was arrested to-night at Hopkinsville, Ky., charged with stealing $16,000 from T. J. Fuller, a wealthy farmer near Jackson, Tenn. During the war Fuller buried $16,000 in gold in his front yard. He has allowed it to remain there ever since, for safe keeping. During the night the yard was plowed up and the money was stolen. Boyd was suspected and followed to Hopkinsville, where he had deposited several thousand dollars in a bank.

PORTLAND, SATURDAY APRIL 24, 1886.

"DAMN POLITICS."

"Damn Politics," is a common cry among certain classes of Americans. Some men of fair repute for scholarly tastes and acquirements are never weary of expressing their contempt for politics. The Anglicized American snob or dreary dude is never so fluent as when he is boasting that he never votes; that politics is too dirty a pool for a gentleman to dabble in; that a gentleman can afford to touch politics in England, but not in America. And yet the gilded youth of America, who hold their noses at the mention of American politics, devote themselves to a good many things that do not stand for sweet or beautiful roses in a gentleman's chaplet. The best of them grow old, sauntering listlessly through a life of luxuriant ease and æsthetic inactivity; grow old "dropping buckets into empty wells and drawing nothing up." This is about what the best of our dudes in art and literature do, who so heartily despise politics. The strong, full-blooded golden calf that bleats forth his disgust for politics and the distrust of our form of government, which he imported with his last pair of English trousers, generally spends his life in athletics and animalism; he becomes the selfish muscular lout that Wilkie Collins satirized in "Man and Wife." When he is not killing pigeons to make a holiday he is matching game cocks, watching bulldogs worry each other to death, playing polo, driving a "tally ho" team, betting on a boat race, buying pools on the turf, or trying his luck at poker. This athletic scorner of the world of American politics is generally not many pegs above that low level of human felicity defined by Tom Benton when he described a Southern man of his day as never wholly happy except "when his hands were full of cards and his belly full of oysters." This is about as high as the muscular, healthy, political dude rises in America. He has the bad taste to despise his own country, and yet to import nothing from England save the superficial follies and vices of English life, the very things that all upright and able Englishmen heartily despise.

And yet the despised, derided field of politics is the highest and most useful work that a young man can devote himself to, if he finds he has any aptitude for it. Packing caucuses, trading in offices, is no more the legitimate work of a politician than the low art of a shyster is the legitimate work of a lawyer. Politics is the study and practice of the art of government, as expressed by legislation and administration. To lead in politics in a large way needs large and versatile intelligence, clear, forcible, persuasive speech; thoughtful appreciation of the cause and cure of public abuses that plague the people and mildew prosperity. These are the powers that enable an apt man to apprehend, acquire and enact the "talk of the sidewalk" into the law of the land." He needs a large knowledge of both books and men; the intelligence of a student joined to the vigor and tact of a man of affairs. To capture a caucus by packing it, to charm a crowd by cheap appeal to low prejudice and short-sighted selfishness is the path by which every land lubber seeks to mount the rigging of the ship of state, but he never gets near the mast-head, and not seldom falls headlong and dies miserably among his worshipers.

The world soon finds out whether you have more wisdom than wind, whether your head has more brains than windpipe, whether you carry a torch in your right hand, or are only rotten wood shining out of darkness. It is quite as worthy of a man's best powers to fit himself for the work of a sincere and beneficent lawmaker, an illuminator of the public intellect; a purger of the public conscience, an eliminator of the cataract of bigotry and prejudice from the public eye, as it is to make a million in trade or speculation, or to spend a million in the inane orgies of a sensual snob or the whimsical extravagance of a dreamy, indolent, yawning æsthete in art or literature. The highest types of the English aristocracy and landed gentry do this; the highest types of Southern wealth and character in America devoted themselves to politics before the war, and became the aggressive political genius of the nation. Educated men of large inherited wealth have been taught to despise politics, and politics is a far better outlet for their energies than practice of the pagan philosophy of pleasure. Whether they succeed or not in politics they enlarge their range of intellectual activity, the scope of their democratic moral and social sympathies; they have the satisfaction of a high duty done, rather than the memory of weeks of childish sport or mere intellectual dissipation. The turbulence of a state or national legislature, the vociferation and vituperation of a caucus, are sometimes offensive and repellent to a refined mind; but it is a deal more healthful than the indolent drift of club life or the artificial atmosphere of a fashionable drawing-room. Politics is high business and need not be left to low people. Because there are "sharps" in Wall street, shall all honest men abandon it and suffer it to become the exclusive empire and isolated home of swindlers in finance? Because there are "graveyard" insurance men, shall legitimate insurance be given up to these ghouls? Because there are eavesdroppers and blackmailers, shall no honorable men go into journalism?

"PROFESSIONAL" WORKINGMEN.

Commissioner Peck of the bureau of labor statistics of New York in his last annual report has a notice of the "professional" workingman, which photographs the Oregon species of that individual, as well as the New York variety. In fact this dead beat is everywhere, and his character is always the same.

These alleged laborers, the commissioner says, are "bands of agitators, who manage to subsist upon the prejudices of poor workingmen." This description fits exactly. The so-called and self-styled "leaders" of "agitation" everywhere are nearly all men of this sort. They are parasites, whom the workingman permits to live and to prey upon him.

Here in Portland the blatant "leaders" are, with scarcely an exception, "men who never worked and never will." Yet they have good clothes to wear, are well fed, and have money for gratification of their natural instincts and pampered appetites for vice and dissipation. In one way or another they get this money chiefly out of workingmen, who ought to be ashamed to permit themselves to be duped and robbed by such worthless rascals.

For the real workingman there is nothing in "agitation"—except that form of agitation that consists in driving right ahead in any employment or industry to which he can turn his hand. The man who laments that it is his fate to work never will be either content or prosperous.

NO PARDON WANTED.

Roscoe Conkling's conduct of the case of the people against the Broadway railway swindlers has won him considerable applause, and it is reported that the republicans of New York intend to call him back to the leadership of the party in the state. Very likely the party would be glad to substitute a man of forceful and masterly leadership for such feeble captains as Warner Miller and such eccentric, pedantic pilots as Evarts, who has thus far entirely disappointed his friends. It is quite possible in their despair of the republican ship, which lacks breeze and steam, engineer and pilot in New York state, that the party might stoop to conciliate Conkling, but he would not be likely to obey the summons to come aboard the vessel in a severe stress of weather. Conkling is a man of the Coriolanus breed, able, arrogant, brave, blunt, honest, bitter and resentful. He is absorbed in a very large and lucrative law practice; he is not likely to leave it for the slender income of an honest senator. His profession means peace and plenty; return to politics would mean kicks and curses, small pay, a life of stert and strife, little chance of new honors, with sure resurrection of old obloquy, so far as the Blaine faction is concerned. Conkling, his friends believe, was treated with great indignity and ingratitude, with shameful duplicity by Garfield, under the instigation of Blaine. Popular sympathy might have been with him had he not made a great blunder in seeking a re-election after his reckless resignation. He doubtless saw with satisfaction the republicans routed and the fortified camp of the White house stormed in November, 1884, and he is probably still quite willing to hear the republican howl without serious sorrow or regret. His wounds are deep and have not yet ceased to smart. Conkling feels like Coriolanus ejected from Rome, quite willing that the democracy should sack the city and degrade the petty tribunes that sent him into exile. His temper is too proud to make peace with those who banished him; he knows it would prove but a hollow pretense of peace; he knows the Blaine faction that defeated and dethroned him is as irreconcilable as an Indian; that it will never forget or forgive the past, although, like an Indian, it might wile him back within the party for the malignant pleasure of lynching him at the first opportunity. No; Conkling will hardly come back; he would not if he could, and he dare not if he would; he is sure to be hunted to death if he ever again steps his foot within the circle of partisan politics. Miller, Cornell, Platt, Hiscock, Evarts are all cold enough to conciliate Conkling if they could make anything out of surrender, but the anti-Conkling faction is incorruptible and irreconcilable; they would hunt Conkling with the unrelenting vindictiveness of a Kentucky mountaineer or an old-time Scottish borderer who blows the flame of a family feud and feeds it with the fuel of fresh vengeance from generation to generation. Conkling knows this, and he will not return to the party in its day of downcast that drummed him out of camp in the hour of defeat. If the republican "Scotland is burning," Conkling will not forget that it was kindled to smoke him out of place and power, and it is like him grimly to invite those who kindled it now to quench it.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

While the world goes on declaring that the Panama canal scheme is impracticable, De Lesseps goes on with his operations. A vast amount of work has been accomplished and it is the opinion of well informed engineers that within five years ships will be passing to and fro through a well made and permanent canal. Those who have reported progress upon this canal to our government have made the mistake of assuming that because one-tenth or one-fifth of the work has cost so much, the whole work will cost ten times or five times that amount. The organization, the "plant," the "momentum" have cost quite as much as the work actually performed and the work yet to be done will cost proportionately much less. De Lessep's commanding position in Europe as an engineer, financier and practical man of affairs will make it easier for him than for any other man living to raise the sum still required and there is reason to believe that if private resources fail the French government will come to his aid and put the thing through. Nobody familiar with the enterprise and the man now doubts that the great work will be accomplished and in a short time comparatively. Possibly it may never return their money to the stockholders, but the world will have the benefit of the expenditure.

All the talk to the contrary notwithstanding, the Panama is the only canal route easily practicable. It is almost a straight chute, is to be free from locks and open at all times and tides, and when it is once in operation there will be no postponement on account of weather, or "for repairs." It can be depended upon absolutely as a channel of commerce. Its only disadvantage is that its Pacific end is within the region of calms, but it is thought that for sailing vessels towage can be made very cheap. It is not unlikely, however, that this canal will have an effect upon shipping in these waters similar to that of the Suez canal upon shipping in the east. The bulk of the Indian commerce once carried round Good Hope in sailing craft now goes by steamers through the canal. It is possible that when the Panama canal is done steamers will take the place of sailing ships in our European trade. This contingency will be followed by another which Oregon would do well to consider. When steam is applied to heavy freighting the best profit is found in very big ships which draw from twenty-two to twenty-seven feet. In its present condition the Columbia bar would not allow the passage of such ships, and it behooves us to promote the work of improvement against a time when increased depth of water will be a positive necessity.

The New York Mail and Express says: "Against the boycott as an institution employed to enforce the will of groups of discontented persons upon all who differ from them there is apparently to be a moral revolt all along the line; and the people generally take up the fight with proper spirit."

The talk that leaks out from inside indicates that George Steel is to be nominated for senator, Andrus for treasurer, Demont for county judge and Wheeler for clerk.

Gen. R. E. Lee's $20,000 Offer.

Atlanta Constitution.

Mr. Chapen, lately of Richmond, says: "Mr. Tom Allfriend told me that shortly after the war he bore a proposition to Gen. Lee from an insurance company of New York, offering him $20,000 a year if he would allow the use of his name as Southern manager. Gen. Lee declined, saying that he could not consent to take any money he did not earn. He added that if his reputation was what they wished to buy that did not belong to him, but to his people—to the soldiers who had earned it on the battlefields of Virginia."

By the Sad Sea Waves.

New York Mail and Express.

Miss Rose Cleveland and her friend, Miss Van Vechten, take frequent strolls on the board-walk at Atlantic City. Both wear heavy ulsters, and Miss Cleveland hides her face with a blue veil.

How Women Differ from Men.

At least three men on the average jury are bound to disagree with the rest just to show that they've got minds of their own; but there is no disagreement among the women as to the merits of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." They are all unanimous in pronouncing it the best remedy in the world for all those chronic diseases, weaknesses and complaints peculiar to their sex. It transforms the pale, haggard, dispirited woman, into one of sparkling health, and the ringing laugh again "reigns supreme" in the happy households.

PRESS PITH.

If Gladstone could only see the large and varied assortment of pictures supposed to represent him, now being published in this country, he would immediately retire to private life.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

In New York recently a colored man was sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment for stealing a dog. If any man will steal our dog we will use our influence to get him a pension for life, with full arrears from 1865.—Lowell Citizen.

"I notice," said the gentleman in search of information, to Herr Most, "that anarchists never strike. Why is this?" "That," said the great apostle of inertia as a factor in social progress, with much dignity, "is easily explained. No true anarchist ever works."—Washington Hatchet.

An exchange says: "All the decorative pieces of glass, china or silver on the fashionable dinner tables are tall and high at present." Young man, if you are plotting matrimony we would inform you that these things always will be high. Buy 'em now while they're tall, and get your money's worth.—Boston Post.

Bagley—Mrs. De Bagge is the most courageous woman I ever knew. Mrs. Bagley (skeptically)—Indeed! Bagley—Yes. She went to church last Sunday wearing her last year's bonnet. Mrs. Bagley—And her husband dared to shave himself the same day! What do you think of that for nerve?—Philadelphia Call.

It Wasn't a Rabbit.—Doctor—Well, do you think the dog was mad when he bit you? Solomon—Wal, sah, I guess he war rudder put out by de way he 'ducted hisse'f. Doctor—No, I do not mean angry; I mean rabid. Solomon—Oh, no, sah, it wa'n't a rabbit. I's shuah 'twas a dog, sah.—Harper's Bazar.

A Worthy Applicant.—Tramp—Will you help a poor soldier, sir, who fought for his country these long years? Gentleman—There are plenty of people who fought for their country. Tramp—I know it, sir; but I am entitled to especial consideration. Gentleman—Why? Tramp—I have never written an article on the late war.—Harper's Bazar.

John H. Kimball, of Westfield, Chautauqua Co., N. Y., writes May 20, 1885, that he was suffering with Rheumatic Fever and had Constipation so bad that many times he went twelve days without an evacuation. Given up by physicians, he, as a last resort, took Brandreth's Pills, two every night for seven weeks. Now he is an entirely well man, and never uses any other medicine for himself or family. He will answer any inquiries.

AT HOME, April 22, 1886.
To the Convention nominating the Prohibition County Ticket for Multnomah county—
Gentlemen: Late last evening, from one of your delegates, I learned of my nomination for the office of Superintendent of Common Schools. This was a surprise; and since I am a Republican, have worked with the Republicans thus far in the campaign, expect to do so in the future, and though I am a temperance man, am not in sympathy with your third-party movement, it is but just to you and your co-workers that you should be acquainted with these facts, to the end that a man may be named in my stead who will represent your political cause. I therefore decline the nomination. Respectfully, D. M. C. GAULT.

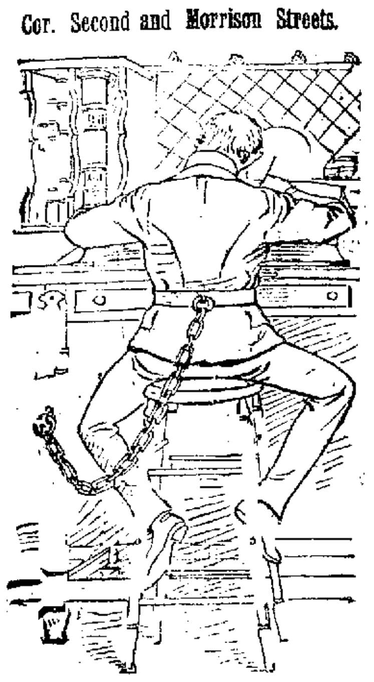
Cor. Second and Morrison Streets.



O WILL YOU, TIT WILL YOU.

On a bench in his office this Clothier sat,
Saying, will you, tit will you, tit will you,
Advertise my store well, and I'm in a good trap;
Oh will you, tit will you, tit will you.
I'll offer such bargains, enticing to all,
They cannot help giving me promptly a call.
Come old men, young men, ladies and all,
O will you, tit will you, tit will you.

Koen's the Leader, he styles his goods number one;
No fill oh, no fill oh, no fill oh.
It's truth he is telling, not done for a drum;
No fill oh, no fill oh, no fill oh!
Styles to suit the eccentric, the sage and the dude,
In reading this phrase do not think he is rude,
He must advertise so [illegible],
No fill oh, no fill oh, no fill oh.

Go and look at his Hats, all the latest designs;
No fill oh, no fill oh, no fill oh!
I'm sure you will buy one; ah, there! they are fine!
No fill oh, no fill oh, no fill oh!
The Fulan and Duster, both worn by the swell,
Or his Nation and Adonis will please quite as well;
Also YOUMAN'S Silk Hats, always easy to tell,

WRONG AS USUAL.

The Portland Farmer and Dairyman made a[illegible] excellent report of the stallion exhibition, wh[illegible] took place here April 10. From some cause, T[illegible] OREGONIAN ignored the exhibition, not even s[illegible] much as mentioning the fact of such an exhibit[illegible] having taken place in Hillsboro.—Hillsboro Ind[illegible]pendent.

THE OREGONIAN gave over a column of i[illegible] space on April 11 to a full and complete report o[illegible] the above mentioned stallion show. This repo[illegible] was furnished by THE OREGONIAN'S special co[illegible] respondent and was not only better and more a[illegible] thentic, but a great deal longer than that publishe[illegible] by the paper which exhibits such deplorab[illegible] ignorance.

TO THE PUBLIC.

It being now a fixed fact that the Columbia stre[illegible] bridge will be built, and Oatman's hundred dolla[illegible] lots being only ten minutes walk from the bridge, you can't make any better investment than to buy one of them. They are level and all cleared, you can pay for them in installments of $5 per month. Over forty of them have been sold within sixty days and there are only a few of them left. Go and look at them and you will be convinced that they are desirable and cheap.

NOTICE.

Parties going to Granite creek mines, British Columbia will save time and money by taking the Victoria-Hope route.

[illegible] Berry [illegible] Smith [illegible] Jackson [illegible] prominent pugilist who [illegible] his friend Edwards [illegible] Yes, and I am the man who [illegible] a warrant for [illegible] Dr. [illegible] prominent pugilist, after another round of drinks had been disposed of, skipped off to the court house to see about the writ of habeas corpus which was to be finally decided upon at [illegible] o'clock, and again meeting Berry proceeded to [illegible] several more times with a view of preventing him from serving the warrant he brought with him until the hour of [illegible] had passed. [illegible] the pugilist succeeded in keeping Berry [illegible] until [illegible] minutes of the time [illegible] it could hold him [illegible] Berry returned to the county [illegible] in good season [illegible] time for Berry at [illegible] pugilist's expense.

TROUBLE AHEAD.—An attempt was made yesterday to get [illegible] Edwards, the pugilist who was arrested on a telegram for prize fighting, out of custody on a writ of habeas corpus, but it proved unsuccessful. J. A. Starr appeared as Edwards's attorney and argued the writ before Judge Stearns, District Attorney [illegible] opposing counsel. The case was put over until [illegible] o'clock, and in the meantime a Mr. Berry, deputized as a sheriff from Jackson county, arrived here with a warrant and will start this morning with Edwards for Jacksonville. [illegible] who fought with Edwards and several others who had a hand in bringing about the battle have been arrested in Jacksonville or vicinity. A photograph of the mill was taken [illegible] the scene which shows the pictures of all who were in attendance. With this and other evidence a lively time is expected at Jacksonville during the trial of the case, which will result in testing the validity of the new law as to slugging matches. It is said the photograph shows that it wasn't a soft glove contest, but otherwise—a regular legitimate scrap, and also displays the physiognomy of numbers of Southern Oregon's prominent citizens.

OREGON DISTILLERIES.—Several barrels of apple brandy were shipped from this city a day or two since to St. Paul. It is not generally known there are quite a number of stills in this state for making brandy from fruit. None of them make any large amount, as there is very little demand for apple brandy here. The output ranges from one to ten or twelve barrels. The oldest still in the state is located at Milwaukie. [illegible] stills grapes and the output depends upon the crop of that fruit. There is also a still on Walling's place near Oswego, one each at Butteville, Lebanon, [illegible] Milwaukie, Myrtle Point, Jacksonville, East Portland, [illegible] and one at Washougal, W. T. If there was any market here for apple brandy the combined output of these stills would be considerable. As there is no bonded warehouse here for [illegible] parties who have brandy [illegible] California. All the brandy [illegible] is required to pay a tax of 90 cents per gallon to the government. It only requires [illegible] makes it very hard [illegible] for those [illegible] of such stuff.

[illegible] writing from North Cove [illegible] The life [illegible] went [illegible] Brown, keeper of [illegible] Saturday, April [illegible] to try a new surf boat that had been lately sent to the station from San Francisco. When crossing the [illegible] breakers [illegible] the boat [illegible] the steering gear that she was filled with water [illegible] throwing all hands into the water. They all succeeded in reaching the boat and after several attempts succeeded in getting her on her bottom [illegible] constantly breaking over them. [illegible] hauled the boat out of the breakers, but it was found impossible to bail her [illegible] under water amidships. After [illegible] hour and a half clinging to the boat the crew were rescued by Capt. Stream of the [illegible] Hunter [illegible] more dead than alive. That life boat is evidently not a self-righting, self-bailing one and is poorly adapted for service on this coast or any other for that matter.

SECURED HIS FEATHERS.—The gentleman who amuses himself [illegible] the window [illegible] drugstore was moved a day or two since by a Chinaman who stood [illegible] Tuscan [illegible] on pretending what was said [illegible] had been ordered to move on. He did not like the way in which he had been treated [illegible] when the [illegible] maker wished yesterday to purchase a [illegible] which he had in his coop he refused to sell it to him—boycotted him as it were. [illegible] merely wanted the plumage of the [illegible] but the insulted Chinaman said: "You no can have [illegible] feathers [illegible]" [illegible] son of [illegible] back to his work [illegible] Davy [illegible] around to negotiate [illegible] at an outlay of 40 cents. The boycott does work both ways.

DEEP SEA FISHING.—The fishing schooner [illegible] Venture tied up to the dock at the foot of Cass street yesterday afternoon, says the Astorian, and was soon boarded by a crowd eager to learn what success had attended her first trip. [illegible] pleased with the performance of the boat, which has proved a fast sailer. They made one haul [illegible] three hours Wednesday afternoon and got a good lot of fish of the usual variety and a large quantity of [illegible] crabs. The boat was soon [illegible] to the many who were anxious to buy [illegible] details about the rigging need modification [illegible] the trip was quite satisfactory [illegible] will soon go out again.

AT ODDS.—The friends of the two east side candidates for county clerk, J. N. Sanders and [illegible] Wheeler, are somewhat riled over the situation. Charges of treachery and misrepresentation were freely made last night by both sides. Mr. Wheeler's friends claim a majority of the East Portland delegation [illegible] The friends of Mr. Sanders insist that the east side country delegates [illegible] the settlement of the question [illegible] refuse to surrender to the Wheeler force. A REPUBLICAN PROTEST

PORTLAND, April [illegible]

To the Editor of THE OREGONIAN:

In the [illegible] statement in the Evening [illegible] of yesterday that the names of the candidates selected by the [illegible] managers for the republican convention to ratify has escaped. That is Mr. W. H. Andrus, member of the [illegible] council from the second ward, for county treasurer. I am also credibly informed from other [illegible] that Mr. Andrus is on the slate.

The writer has heretofore voted the regular republican ticket without question and has always worked for its success, but if the managers force upon the party so objectionable a candidate in many respects as W. H. Andrus he proposes to try what virtue there is in scratching. It is notorious that Mr. Andrus as a member of the council has been active in promoting all efforts for the reduction of liquor licenses, and in favoring the liquor interests at all points, having been an able and willing assistant of the "Boss of Couch." He was also a keen friend and advocate of the famous (or infamous) Morey water works project in all its various stages, being ready and willing to "throw

[illegible] in the way of the [illegible] the scheme [illegible] that while the [illegible] has been [illegible]

THE COURTS.

[illegible] Stearns [illegible] Smith [illegible]

In the state circuit court department No. [illegible] yesterday the case of the Multnomah Lumbering [illegible] company came up on exceptions to the referee's [illegible] fees of the attorney for the assignee and the [illegible] of the assignee, W. B. Honeyman [illegible] Moreland, the attorneys, were allowed $[illegible] claim of the assignee for $[illegible] is not yet been passed upon.

A motion for a new trial was filed in Judge Stearns's court yesterday in the Goldsmith case. The principal reasons set forth for asking it: That the evidence delivered upon the trial was insufficient to sustain a verdict. That the verdict was in [illegible] contrary to the evidence [illegible] That the verdict is contrary to the law governing this and like cases. That the court committed error in its charge [illegible] construing [illegible] outcry, with complaint, and in directing the jury that in weighing the credibility of the complaining witness they might consider the complaint to another after the alleged commission of the offense as the legal equivalent of "outcry" at the time of its commission, and in directing them that [illegible] from the evidence determine whether the plaintiff witness has made an outcry within reasonable time after the alleged commission of the crime.

POLICE COURT.

Yesterday in the police court there was a [illegible] crowd assembled in the lobby, all of whom awaited anxiously to get a [illegible] and to hear the testimony in the preliminary examination. [illegible] the prisoner was concerned [illegible] disappointment [illegible] The case was put over until Monday by [illegible] of Deputy Prosecuting Attorney [illegible] A. Campbell, who has been retained by the accused. One of the main reasons for the postponement is that both sides [illegible] time to look [illegible] such witnesses as they may want and have them subpoenaed.

The examination of George Murray on a charge of stabbing J. B. [illegible] Thursday night in the Rosebud saloon at the southwest corner of Second and Taylor streets was continued until such time as [illegible] shall have sufficiently recovered as to be able to appear. His companions [illegible] and John Doran are also still held pending future developments.

M. F. Cavanaugh, the one legged man, was up again on a charge of drunkenness. Only [illegible] days ago he was sentenced to serve a term of ten days imprisonment, but was released on paying $15 into the city treasury. He no sooner got out than he again loaded himself with spirituous liquors and had to be rolled in again in a wheelbarrow. In order to give policemen a chance to get even with the wheelbarrow [illegible] on some one else, Judge [illegible] fined Cavanaugh $50. As [illegible] he is now in a rather depleted condition [illegible] will have to serve his term out.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY

To the Hon. Loyal B. Stearns, Judge of the State Circuit Court, Department No. [illegible]: We, the grand jury of Multnomah county for the January term, 1886, would most respectfully report to your honor as follows:

We met on the 18th of January last, and since that time have been in session forty days. During that period we have examined eighty [illegible] cases. Of these we have found in forty cases true bills. In twenty-five cases "Not True bills," and eight [illegible] were examined on original information brought by parties before the grand jury and were not from justices' courts.

We have examined the offices of the justices, Multnomah county, the clerk's and sheriff's offices, the county and city jail, and we find them all properly conducted and in the hands of parties who have shown us great courtesy and consideration.

We have examined the county poor farm and are [illegible] to state that we find it [illegible] well kept [illegible] of a competent superintendent. There is a marked improvement in almost everything [illegible] the management of the poor farm. We heard no complaint from the inmates and saw nothing which would merit our condemnation. We made a careful examination of the premises and while we can but recommend the [illegible] in relation to the care of the [illegible] and the arrangements pertaining to the farm itself we have some suggestions to make. We find that the old bedsteads which have been used for many years, or the patients, are not suitable to be used any longer. It has become necessary in the last four months to burn several of them and those that are in use are entirely unsuitable and should be discarded. We would recommend the purchase by the county of iron bedsteads for the use of paupers. They are preferable every way, being easier to keep clean and besides being more durable. The cost would be small and the disadvantages arising from the use of the old bedsteads [illegible] difficult to be kept cleansed from vermin, are reasons sufficient to justify the county commissioners in ordering new bedsteads. We are also [illegible] recommendation [illegible] The Chinese [illegible]

PAID IN ONE DAY.

I desire too to commend the promptness with which you have settled this claim, as the proofs were received by you yesterday and settlement has been made to-day.

This policy too if it had not been [illegible] the [illegible] Mutual [illegible] would have been void because the last payment [illegible] was made September [illegible] 1885, and it would have been forfeited for non-payment of premiums since that date, but your policy has been kept in force [illegible] and the full amount of the policy less only the forborne premiums.

Such liberality [illegible] and promptness in payment of claims [illegible] insured. Yours truly,
ARTHUR C. [illegible]

A number of the recent purchasers in McF[illegible]'s addition are employed in clearing and fencing their lots. We look for numerous improvements to be added to the village the coming summer.

The Good Templars' lodge at this place is in a very prosperous condition. The enrollment is over one hundred. A grand celebration and picnic will probably be given some time in May or June.

For the first time in its history Winlock now has church service every Sabbath. The Sunday schools, two in number, are well attended and prayer meeting is held regularly each Wednesday night.

Mr. Luther Ayres and wife are the latest additions to the Tennessee colony. They arrived direct from East Tennessee last Wednesday, having made the journey in seven days. Mr. A. says a number of other Tennesseeans will arrive the coming month.

Old man Wm. Christian called another bear [illegible] his home in this vicinity last Sunday. He says he goes hunting on Sunday for luck. [illegible] dollars for each scalp pays him very well for a Sabbath day's work—much better than many of the preachers are paid in this section.

REPORTS.

From director Dodd that a contract had been awarded Howe & Co. at [illegible] cents per volume to [illegible] records.

[illegible] director Dodd that the prevailing opinion was that the board had no authority to rent a room for their own and the clerk's use, and that several taxpayers threatened to protest against it. He said they had a room down stairs in the High school building that might be used for the purpose. His report was received and the matter was referred back to the board.

There was quite a little debate on the subject. [illegible] said an office in the High school building would be very inconvenient for taxpayers who [illegible] business when they had any to transact [illegible] Besides the High school basement [illegible] just exactly the proper place for [illegible] office. Directors Dodd and Wilson seemed to think the basement fronting on Morrison street [illegible] be made healthy and fixed up in suitable [illegible] for an office [illegible] clerk. Thompson [illegible] the clerk $20 a month to [illegible] After a little [illegible] the matter was passed for future consideration.

Mr. Dodd then reported that he had received notice from Mr. Robertson of Foster & Robertson that he had a claim for material against the district and would enter suit unless it was paid. Mr. Thompson said J. C. Carson threatened to sue for $[illegible] for window shutters. It seems contractor D[illegible] Burch claims $[illegible] due him for [illegible] This claim he has assigned to the claimants who furnished material. The supreme court has decided that a lien can not hold against a public building, but it seems Carson and F[illegible] & Robertson propose to sue the district directly on the assignment of DeBurgh and do not [illegible] to take a lien as they are of the opinion that a judgment against the district will hold. Arbitration was suggested.

Director Durham said the case might as well be arbitrated in a court of law as this would be the eventual outcome. This matter will also be brought up for future consideration.

Adjourned.

DEMORALIZED.
On his arrival in San Francisco, our Mr. KING LEE found the market in a terribly demoralized condition, on account of the fearful cuts made every day in freight rates. Everybody wanted to get rid of goods, as the town is perfectly flooded with them. As KING LEE knows a good thing when it is offered to him he pitched right in, and this is the result:

COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY, April 23.

Weather cloudy.

The day is observed as a holiday in England, New York and Chicago, consequently we are without market reports from those places.

The O R & N Co will doubtless recognize the Saturday half holiday system beginning about May 1.

Retailers for some time past have complained of wholesalers selling to consumers and are now at work trying to stop the system. They ask wholesalers to sign an agreement to sell only to the trade except at retail prices. While our wholesalers have not, as a rule, sought this retail trade, they have slowly extended favors to friends and in this way interfered with retailers.

Sugars were advanced one-quarter of a cent late yesterday and three-eighths again to-day. This makes a total of a cent and a quarter in the week. While some dealers say they have little faith in these advances being maintained others look for even higher prices. The first advances were believed to result from the strikes at Eastern refineries, but it is now thought the San Francisco refineries have entered into a combination and that low sugar values are not to be soon repeated. Portland merchants are credited with holding from four to six thousand barrels of sugar and the advance means something to them. At the time of the decline they held a much less quantity.

Overland receipts include 60 bbls oil, 175 bxs 2 sks coffee, 120 qr 181 hf bbls corn meal, car furniture lumber, car separators, 2 cars implements, 1 cs figs, 10 sks nuts, 5 bbls currants, 5 bbls berries, 100 cs candles, 10 cs can goods, 32 boxes codfish, 40 kits mackerel, 12 cs canned do, 10 cs baking powder, 7 cs hats, 35 cs boots and shoes, 27 cook stoves, 25 heating stoves, 175 bdls baskets, 31 bdls sheet iron, 6 buggies, 2 carts, 2 cs cigars, 12 harrows, 11 cs churns, 25 bdls chair stock, 1 bdl rakes, 11 bdls hoes, 15 bdls forks.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours—600 ctls wheat, 1640 bbls flour, 1529 ctls oats, 100 ctls barley, 500 ctls bran, 1703 ctls mill stuff, 71 sks potatoes, 700 lbs hides, 90 cs eggs, 10 bxs fruit, 13 cs butter, 180 sheep, 21 cattle. Also 7540 ctls wheat, 375 ctls barley, 200 ctls feed, 4123 lbs wool, [illegible] lbs hides from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—The iron ship Kapunda is closed to Gibson, Quackenbush & Co for grain loading. Current report says the last iron closings were at 40s or possibly a fraction better. Certainly none received 42s 6d. The Benmore comes for Astoria loading expecting to carry salmon. Others are known to be taken for similar loading.

WHEAT—The local market rules firm under light offerings and a weaker freight market. Holders of valley demand all of $1 27½, which would be paid for parcels to fill needs. Walla Walla quoted $1 15@1 16¼.

OATS—Small business doing and market quite steady. Receipts fair.

POTATOES—Very firm in sympathy with advices. Good qualities will sell promptly but some of the last shipments were not in good condition.

EGGS—Receipts large but the demand is good. Stocks while liberal, are not excessive. To-day 11c is best figure.

REPLY TO REV S P. WILSON

EAST PORTLAND, April [illegible]

Finding but very little if any solid argumentation in Mr Wilson's answer which appeared in to-day's OREGONIAN I will be as brief as possible in my reply. "The Roman Catholic church is not satisfied with our system of common schools," says Mr Wilson. If the Roman Catholic church is not satisfied with the system of public schools, one of the reasons is because the schools are to a great extent managed in the interests of the Protestant sects. For proof we have only to refer to Mr Wilson's senseless attack on the church of last Sunday night, in which he declared that he would read the open bible in the public schools in spite of the Pope himself, and called upon all the public school teachers amongst his audience to do the same. We do not object to the teaching of religion in the public schools, by any means, but I would ask by what right Protestants would introduce sectarian hymns, sectarian books, a sectarian bible and sectarian exercises, and deny the right to Catholics even to teach in the public schools? If Protestants had in all cases shown good faith and acted in a spirit of fairness to the Catholic minority, there would be less reason for any objection about the management of the public schools. If Protestants are afraid to employ Catholic teachers in public schools is it not natural that Catholics should fear Protestant teachers.

As for the power which the priests expect to exercise "under the new regime," it is the same as has been exercised ever since the establishment of the Catholic church. Their power does never increase or decrease. It remains always the same just as the church and her teachings, because the source of power does not come, as the Protestant sects, from a Wesley, Luther, Calvin or others, but from God himself, and is immutable.

"If true to the Romish church he is compelled to build a school building adjacent to his church for the purpose of a parochial school, and well knowing that no Roman Catholic dare go into these common schools either as pupil or teacher, he proposes to give to the school district these four rooms."

Yes, Mr Wilson, with the help of God's grace I hope to remain true till death to the Romish church, for which you as shown in your tirade of last Sunday, have such hatred and horror. The remark, "No Roman Catholic dare go into these common schools as a teacher," expresses your wish perfectly, though it is nothing more or less than a perversion of the well known truth. To the various questions you put as to who is the builder, etc., I will answer that it is none of your business. This much, nevertheless, I will say for your information, that even if the directors would refuse this proposition, the school which as you understand is now in process of erection will be in due time opened for the education of children. As for the question, "Where has the Methodist church ever made an attack upon the public schools as godless?" I refer Mr Wilson to the report of a Methodist convention held in Syracuse in [illegible], which passed the following resolution: "That we as a convention insist upon the moral element in the instruction afforded in our common school system and especially the teaching of the moral system of bible Christianity, which is the foundation of our civil law." Whilst this resolution does not call the public schools godless, it plainly gives us to understand that there is something wanting in their moral element.

A late number of the Interior (Chicago, Presbyterian), although not a Methodist paper, calls the public schools godless, "in which an atmosphere is developed which is hostile to piety and morality." The Catholic church has never said any thing more severe than this. But this phase of the question is foreign to our controversy.

"Where have you found the Methodist church or any other church outside of the Roman Catholic church, proposing such a scheme as you have presented to the people of East Portland?"

Thus far no Protestant denomination has shown any disposition to be so generous.

Mr. Wilson insinuates that my purpose in making this proposition was a political intrigue. No one who reads the conclusion of his letter of yesterday or who listened to his stump speech last Sunday evening will fail to recognize in Mr Wilson the political parson and clerical demagogue. Perhaps Mr. Wilson may be looking for an office. As for lashing children upon "their naked backs," he must have been drawing upon his imagination for facts.

"If we read history aright," etc. If you did read history aright, Mr Wilson, you would not have made and even repeated the stupid assertion last Sunday night that Catholicity is the same now as it was 2400 years ago.

For fear of being too long I conclude by repeating that if the school directors see fit to accept my proposition there will be no occasion given to either Jew, Gentile or Protestant for finding fault with the management, and should it not be conducted in accordance with the conditions the contract may be broken at any time.

FOUND DEAD

On Wednesday morning last Wm. Rowell, a bachelor, who has lived by himself for several years past about four miles from Soda Springs, Clackamas county, was found dead in his bed. Our informant, who left the vicinity on the day of the discovery, says the cause of death had not been ascertained up to the time of his departure but the general supposition was heart disease. Rowell was a man 70 years of age and had been engaged in fruit growing.

EASTER EXERCISES.

At the M E church to-morrow evening a most interesting Easter concert will be given under the auspices of the Sunday school. A special programme has been prepared of which the following is an outline: First scene, "Easter Dawn;" second, "The Empty Tomb;" third, "Early at the Tomb;" fourth, "The Vision of Angels;" fifth, "Heralds of Joy;" sixth, "The Weeping Mary;" seventh, "The Evening Walk;" eighth, "The Evening Meal;" ninth, "A Glorious Meeting." Between each scene appropriate music will be rendered under the leadership of Prof. Wetzel. The following selections will be rendered by the choir: First anthem, "Come Thou Fount;" second anthem, "Revive Again;" third, duet, "Blest Abode," Prof. W. A. Wetzell and Miss Emma Rold.

COLONY OF PENNSYLVANIANS SETTLED

FOREST GROVE, April [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Yesterday was a big day for Forest Grove. What made it so was the arrival of a colony of twenty-seven persons direct from Greenville, Pa. They made the journey over the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line in seven days, without delay or accident. The fact of so many strangers marching up from the depot in solid phalanx, whose coming was entirely unheralded, caused our people to wonder what such a performance meant. We made up our minds that they must be either Knights of Labor, anti-Coolies or boycotters of some kind, and for the moment the situation looked a little critical. But as soon as our people got a glimpse of their faces all their fears vanished, for it was plain to be seen that they had judged them wrongly. The spokesman of the company introduced himself and friends as having come direct from old Pennsylvania, and that the object of their coming was to settle down and make homes among us and try and prove to be good citizens and neighbors. Upon this declaration they were greeted with a hearty welcome, and were made to feel as much at home as possible.

Your correspondent is glad to report that this colony is a colony of workers, as several of the industrial pursuits are represented by them: carriage making, milling, blacksmithing, watch making, lumbering, and farmers, each has its representative. There are several in this party also who are common laborers. Their family names as near as we can learn are Ritter, Kosor, McDonald, Bean, Johnson, Kidd, Ulrich, Donaldson and Stell.

Mr. Koser brought a sawmill with him and hopes to find a mill site soon. McDonald is a farmer of means, but will rent a year before making any purchases. The Reiglemans (four of them) are jewelers and carriage makers. They have already rented property here. Several others of the party have also taken houses for the present.

We earnestly hope that each and everyone of the party may be permanently benefited by the change. They express themselves highly delighted with the country so far and especially are they loud in their praises of our beautiful village. They declare Forest Grove to be the liveliest town between the Atlantic and Pacific. We hope that such opinions may live with them. J. M.

OLYMPIA NOTES

OLYMPIA, April [illegible]

For over a week our citizens have been in a state of nervous excitement on account of burglaries taking place in the eastern part of town almost every night. Finally the thief made a raid on the dwelling of Mr. J. Oppenheimer one night about midnight, and was soon engaged in [illegible] with the owner [illegible] which the latter received a big knife but he managed to maul Mr Housebreaker pretty badly until the latter was compelled to jump through the window, taking [illegible] with him. Next day City Marshal [illegible] organized a posse and made a thorough search in the southeastern part of the city and succeeded in finding a great deal of the stolen clothing, pistols, revolvers, kettles and an innumerable quantity of goods, and at one time the party got sight of the housebreaker but he managed to escape from his pursuers. A constant watch however is being kept up, and it is hoped the desperado may yet find a resting place in the city cell.

Bishop Paddock held service in St. John's church on Monday evening and confirmed six persons. The services on Easter Sunday will be very impressive, and the children of St. John's Sunday school will hold an Easter service at noon on that day.

South bay is situated about one and a half miles from the Sound, and steamers of a light draught can easily run up to the Corliss mill, which lies adjacent to several large logging camps, especially the McLeod camp, which employs a large force of men at present. The supply of water is endless, and when the present dam is raised eight feet will give a force of about three hundred horse power. It is expected that before long a woolen factory will be erected at this place, and every facility will be given to enterprising men to proceed with the work. Mr. B. F. Corliss is a Minnesota man and is one of those who is anxious to see the country grow, and one where he can afford an opportunity for improvement he will not allow it to pass. He has made many improvements around his mill and being a master mechanic and a thorough workman his efforts for the improvement of the county will no doubt be rewarded as they deserve. W. H. ROBERTS.

The building committee of the Masonic hall have ordered plans and specifications for a building which will be erected with all convenient [illegible] to the town.

Last night at ten o'clock Mr. J. J. He is reported partly conscious and will probably [illegible] all right.

Fort Sumter Day in Charleston

J [illegible] Charleston News and Courier thinks the [illegible] of Fort Sumter [illegible] anniversary of the surrender of Fort Sumter by [illegible] Anderson was taken and yet that event and the [illegible] says [illegible] like an earthquake [illegible] critics of the fort and its defenders. The [illegible] stands a monument to its own glorious story, bidding defiance to the waves of the ocean and the assaults of time. But the men who marched out of that fortress twenty-five years ago and the victors who marched in, where are they? The men who braved shot and shell to hand [illegible] walls during four years of almost constant battle, the men who manned the ships whose broadsides thundered against its parapets, the hosts who swarmed the adjacent islands and [illegible] night and day, and [illegible] essayed to scale its heights, where are they? Here and there [illegible] one stands [illegible] a survivor may be found among the working men of this day and generation, but as a rule living or dead, the wave of oblivion has swallowed them. And with them have disappeared the issues for which they fought, and which have been settled. [illegible] hope the grand ambition, the heroism [illegible] of them.

The Wilcox [illegible] band has been invited [illegible] to the celebration [illegible] at Toledo [illegible] have put in a bid [illegible] for $50 and expenses, but have not received a reply.

JIM BLAINE'S GHOST

It is Worrying Some People, for It is a Very Lively Ghost Indeed

New York Graphic (Dem.)

A contemporary speaks of Blaine's ghost. It is the liveliest ghost that ever escaped its corporeal tenement. It is watching the politics of the period with shrewder eyes than any previous ghost ever had. It is at war with the ghosts of Edmunds and Logan, and they are ghosts indeed. It is a ghost that is of more power than its original possessor. It will never down until the man to whom it belongs has given it the right to hide itself. It is the man in this instance that rules the ghost, by no means the ghost that rules the man.

There are more wisdom, more vitality, more popularity at this moment in the ghost of Mr Blaine than in the live bodies of twenty such men as Edmunds and Logan. The one is as cold and dead as a fish and the other is a fraud. The persistence of Mr. Blaine is a thing to be respected. He believes in himself and he believes in the voters of the country believe in him. His judgment of the voters is not mistaken. They nearly elected him, notwithstanding the record with which he was handicapped. There is a popular impression in this that there was never but one man who was absolutely perfect, and he is dead. Thousands of republicans who repudiated this very live man in the late election, at best would condone his sins if he were to be nominated again. What the republican party is again [illegible]. Which republican but [illegible] is his per[illegible] What a political form is half as majestic [illegible] the republican minds he is the chief [illegible] of the political misfortunes of Henry Clay, and believes that [illegible] he would come and a very large [illegible] is a matter of sympathy [illegible] with a [illegible] to the question whether he would desire it or not. It is not according to precedent that he should be renominated. All men who have been [illegible] national contest heretofore have [illegible] time. But precedent is a pretty cheap thing [illegible] ordered it would be created the world. Precedent is wisdom for small men. It seems entirely because it exists entirely within itself and has no use for nothing else.

The Graphic hopes, in behalf of the democratic party, that Mr Blaine's ghost will not lead the republicans in 1888. If it does there will be a fight that will be worth having, but the result of which is not doubtful. It has no fears with respect to such men as Mr. Edmunds and Mr. Logan. It is not probable that [illegible] part [illegible] with commands [illegible] of course of the [illegible] and by [illegible] of the world's respect the small ones. But if Mr Blaine's ghost puts the [illegible] form of republican suits his [illegible] speech that there would be worth [illegible] and [illegible] one and any other ingredient [illegible] might blow the [illegible] entirely and [illegible] possible [illegible] wind [illegible] least possible point at all.

The Carrying of Boats by Steamships

St James's Gazette

To provide boats for all on board ships has been the high authority of Mr Mundella that he could not expect to find enough boats on board a big passenger steamer to accommodate the [illegible]. According to the president of the board of trade it is quite impossible. If a steamer carries 1000 passengers, and boats for 300, she has done all that can be expected. To carry boats sufficient for all would interfere fatally with the safe working, as well as with the freight capacity of the vessel. So says Mr. Mundella. But yet he notices ships crowded as to their decks with [illegible] rigging and [illegible] in ample to stow away is enough for the [illegible] that the great steamships, which carry [illegible] complement of men [illegible] are [illegible] by rafts or [illegible] or [illegible]. If parliament [illegible] the adoption of compulsory [illegible] passenger steamers to provide more boats or other appliances for saving life, we fancy the companies would find it possible to comply with their requirements.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY

Sheriff McGraw, of Seattle, has offered $1000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the persons implicated in the murder of John Grant at Green River, on the night of September [illegible], 1885.

The Knights of Pythias lodges throughout Puget Sound are making arrangements for a grand time at Seattle the second Tuesday of May. An excursion is being planned to go from Tacoma to attend the jollification.

The United States coast survey steamships McArthur and Carlisle P. Patterson arrived from winter headquarters at San Francisco a few days ago and are now at Port Townsend. The McArthur has been in California for a long time, but the Patterson went there some time last fall. These two steamers will start for the waters of Alaska, where they will engage in government surveys.

Seattle Post-Intelligencer: Thomas Cooper, arrested for unlawful conspiracy during the late unpleasantness, is again in trouble. After being arrested he was sent to the penitentiary, and afterward released on $1000 bonds, Messrs. Charles F. O'Hara and T. P. Heenan becoming sureties for him. Cooper has been drinking heavily of late, and yesterday his bondsmen withdrew, and surrendered Cooper. He is in [illegible], but hopes to find other bondsmen.

Capt. James Carroll has been transferred from the steamship Idaho to the Ancon. The Ancon will be placed on the Alaska route, to alternate with the Idaho. She is the finer ship of the two and will do the principal passenger business. Capt. Carroll stated to a reporter just before leaving Seattle to join the Ancon that he would urge the company to extend her trips to Seattle both going to and coming from Alaska.

A Sumner correspondent writing to a Tacoma paper says: The neat and thriving burg of Sumner is destined to be a town of some importance, and as an educational and church going town it will be noted. Some of the finest farms in this territory are adjacent to this place. The buildings, as a class, are fine, several of them costing over $4000, and furnished as well as many of the city residences. Town lots are reasonable, and the convenient hours at which the trains run make it easy for one to do business in Tacoma and reside here. The Stuck river valley farms extend in outlet to this point, and new farmhouses are seen springing up in all directions, a proof of the growth of our little town. Most of the hops are planted and pole setting is now being pushed rapidly forward. Large numbers of men are now doing this work. A few industrious women to do housework could find steady employment in good homes.

MINING NOTES

James Sims has struck a quartz ledge on his Big creek farm in Union county, that assays [illegible] gold $4, and silver $1 per ton. He will soon ship a load of the ore to Salt Lake for reduction.

Advices from the Colville mining region say the presence of considerable water is delaying operations. However, prospecting is being carried on. High grade galena has been found in large quantities in the Old Dominion. This mine is just a year old, but it is one of the richest ever discovered. Strikes are being made every day, and men gather in the streets to discuss the merits of each new find. The rush to the mines still continues.

GRANITE CREEK

Tacoma News: Mr Isaac Pincus has received a letter from Arthur Berry, who is now in from the Granite creek mines, and kindly permits us to make the following extracts: "There is not much going on, and my conclusions are that Granite creek has been overrated very much. The excitement has drawn a great many men here with little means, and living is high. There are many men here broke. This town is overdone in the mercantile business. There is nothing to be done here in the fur trade. There is no question but what this is a gold bearing country, but if there is nothing better discovered than Granite creek there will be no use in wasting my time here at all. Prices here at present are as follows for the common necessaries of life: Flour, $[illegible] per sack, fifty pounds; [illegible] cents per pound; bacon, [illegible] cents; rice, 13 cents; coffee, [illegible] cents; picks, $[illegible]; shovels, $[illegible]; board, per week, $[illegible]; flannel shirts, $[illegible]; blankets, $[illegible]; beef in the market, [illegible] cents; rubber boots, $[illegible]. It is expected that big discoveries will be made at the head of Tulameen river, but none have been discovered as yet. My best wishes to any one that may be anybody who contemplates coming here, [illegible] that there are already [illegible] here [illegible] Granite creek."

TURF TOPICS

[illegible] Independent: [illegible] who owns one of the most advantageously situated places in the neighborhood of the Falls, in the [illegible] part of town, is showing his enterprise by building a half mile race track. This piece of work has been investigated by several parties interested in the speeding of stock, and they pronounce the work first class, and that when completed Mr Cook will own a race course that will prove a benefit to the town. Mr Cook will go still further and cut a road down from the mill, making the track easy of access from the [illegible].

Lake City News: A 500-yard horse race occurred last Saturday afternoon near Rock creek, about twelve miles from this city, between a gray mare, Mollie, owned by the Murphy brothers, of Rock creek, and a bay horse owned by Dick Conner, and recently from Grant county. Andy Toney was the backer of the mare and Mr. Lord of the bay horse. A large crowd of the valley people were in attendance, and we noticed a few Bakerites there also. Very little money changed hands, the principal legal tender being horses, cows and calves, of which there were a number wagered. The horses were taken to the score as early as 2 o'clock, but it was nearly two hours later when the tapper gave the order to start. Jockeying seemed to be the order of the day, to the utter disgust of the spectators, who stood in a fierce hailstorm awaiting the result of the race. Finally the horses were tapped off, the mare leading from the score, coming in an easy winner. Upwards of $1000 in stock changed hands. The owners of the mare now claim they have a world beater, and are willing to match her against all comers.

NECROLOGY

Hon. I. P. Smith, of Seattle, died on Tuesday, aged 72. He was born in Bangor, Maine, where he lived until 1854. In this year he came to California and remained a couple of years. On his return to his Eastern home he was honored with an election to the Maine legislature, and was there a colleague of James G. Blaine. While on this coast he became greatly impressed with its future prospects, and returned to California in 1858 and located at Forbestown, where he was joined by his family in 1862. Seven years later he moved to Seattle, where he has remained ever since, with the exception of a year or two spent in California previous to 1876. He has served two terms as mayor of the city of Seattle and has twice represented King county in the halls of the territorial legislature. He was a true and constant friend, and had the faculty of drawing men to him. In his death Seattle loses an enterprising business man and Washington territory a useful citizen. His life companion died in 1883.

An Expensive Smile

St James's Gazette

A Birmingham magistrate has made an important decision. He has decided that, however pretty Miss Maude Branscombe may be, that does not entitle a young man to take his master's till in order to get money to go and see her. The case of this particular young man, who has just been sentenced to a term of imprisonment, is a sad one. He explained, in palliation of his offence, that he had one night been in the front row of the pit when Miss Branscombe was playing, and that she smiled in his direction. Up to that moment he had been heart whole. But this smile proved too much for him. He returned to the theater the next night and the next in the hope that the same might be repeated, and when his own money was gone he thought that, considering the circumstance, it might be allowable to borrow other people's. The magistrate, however, declined to sympathize, and that fatal smile has landed the young man in a spell of "hard labor."

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS

Seventy Thousand Works Printed by the United States

American Bookseller

"The Descriptive Catalogue of Government Publications," just published by Major Ben Perley Poore, contains 63,063 titles, and it is estimated that at least 10,000 titles are omitted. It is safe to say that the United States government, since its organization, has published over 100,000 distinct works. This, it must be remembered, is exclusive of the bills introduced into congress, which would make the total high in the hundreds of thousands. During the first quarter of a century of our national existence the documents amounted to 3000, for the next quarter, 6000; for the third quarter, 20,000; for the fourth quarter, 22,000, and the annual output now is over 1000 titles. At present less than 5000 copies are rarely printed, while of the report of the commissioner of agriculture 200,000 copies are annually distributed. In the book estimates for the next fiscal year, just sent to congress, $1,380,231 68 is asked for wages alone. There are on the payroll 400 compositors, besides a large force of superintendents, foremen, etc. Fifty proof readers are steadily employed and 400 pressmen, 11 press feeders and 1 ruling machine feeders. The estimate calls for 100,000 reams of printing paper, or 48,000,000 sheets, each sheet making eight to sixteen pages.

The documents are of all sizes and colors, of every imaginable nature. Some are very thin quartos, like the census volumes or the "Medical History of the War," and at the other extreme are thousands of pamphlet reports of small matters. The largest single publication ever undertaken by the government is "The Tenth Census," which, if completed, would fill about twenty-four large quarto volumes. Only [illegible] of these have been issued or ever will be. But, even as it is, "The Centennial Census" is probably the most voluminous public document, not counting as one serial the vast annual reports. The finest and costliest group of publications relate to the government surveys. Many of these reports are superbly gotten up, copiously illustrated and accompanied by maps of the highest scientific and mechanical excellence.

A Foreign American City

New Orleans Times-Democrat

There are over 90,000 people in the Fourteenth ward of Chicago, of whom only 874 or barely 1 per cent are Americans. The Americans rank lower, in proportion to numbers, than any other nationality. There are some ten Germans to each American, four Scandinavians, four Poles and two Irishmen. The English tongue is very little spoken and very little known within the precincts of this ward, in a city which claims to represent American ideas but has, it seems, very few Americans to represent them. Chicago is the most foreign city in the world, and whatever spirit it evinces is the result of the friction there of all the nationalities of Europe. It is a cosmopolitan triumph, a development of foreign energy and work, largely directed, it is true, by American enterprise and capital.

Surface Indications
What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what is beneath, are the Pimples, Sties, Sore Eyes, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early summer. The effete matter accumulated during the winter months, now expelled in a poisonous form, through Nature's efforts to expel it from the system. While it remains this poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula. This condition causes derangement of the digestive and assimilatory organs, with feelings of enervation, languor and weariness—often called "that tired feeling"—spoken of as only spring fever. These are evidences that Nature is not able, unaided, to throw off the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces. To regain health, Nature must be aided by a thorough blood purifying medicine, and nothing else is so effective as Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Scrofula.
The medical profession indorse AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and many attestations of the cures effected by it come from all parts of the world. It is, in the language of the Hon. Francis Jewett, ex-State Senator of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, "the only preparation that does real lasting good."
